Fond Farewell from Marvin Feld

To our wonderful subscribers and audience:

I have informed our band's board, the band members, and now it is time to alert you to a change that will be taking place with the band. I have decided it is time for me to retire once again, this time from my position as director of the band.

When I "first" retired from teaching and directing, I never envisioned I would serve again as a conductor. But this wonderful opportunity presented itself and it has been rewarding, satisfying, and extremely pleasurable for me.

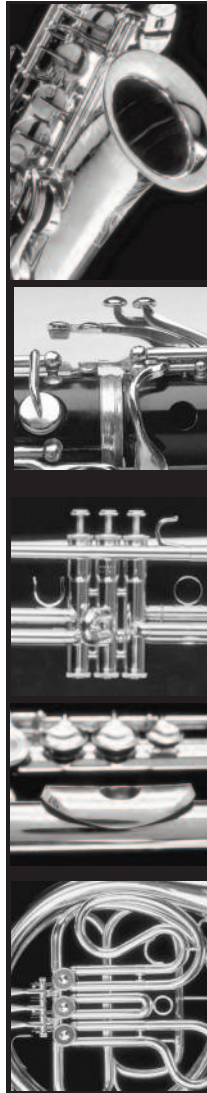

A bonus was to be associated with such a dedicated, talented group of musicians. Their enthusiasm, their energy infused me. A special bonus was the fact that my daughter and grandchildren are currently or were participants with this band. Does it get any better than that??

I thank you for your kind words over the years and want you to know it has been an honor to lead and to present these programs. The band will grow and continue under the fine leadership of current associate conductor Michael Regosch.

I look forward to concluding my tenure at the May 9 concert.

Marvin Feld

SOUTHAMPTON COMMUNITY BAND News & Notes

On this last concert of the season, the band will be recognizing high school seniors who have performed with us. There are five seniors in the band this year: four from the Centennial School District and one from the Philadelphia School District.

It takes a special kind of student to commit to an organization consisting principally of adults. "We treasure the relationship we have with these fine youngsters. Their energy and enthusiasm are wonderful and it is a treat for us to watch them grow and mature," said director Marvin Feld.

Congratulations to the following young people:

- ☆ Fran Scallatino
- ☆ Alex Segal
- ☆ Maria Smirnov
- ☆ Alec Trobovic
- ☆ Matthew Winans

To parents and grandparents, we appreciate all you have done in assisting these students in participating. BRAVO!
